Lisa Wiznitzer & Adam Foosaner

THE COUPLE Lisa Wiznitzer and Adam Foosaner's journey began in November 2022 when they matched on Hinge, and it felt destined—two people with overlapping social circles, growing up just ten minutes apart and both attending Northwestern were bound to meet. Fast forward nearly two years: Adam proposed on their Wicker Park roof deck, with family and friends waiting inside to celebrate.

THE DETAILS The couple exchanged vows in a heartfelt Jewish ceremony led by Lisa's siblings and siblings-in-law, reflecting her family's tradition of having relatives officiate their weddings. Just before the ceremony, the couple signed the ketubah—a Jewish marriage contract outlining the spiritual and emotional promises of love and partnership.

THE PARTY The evening continued with a lively reception, adorned with lush tropical greenery inspired by Lisa's father's Curaçao roots. Heartfelt speeches—including the bride's dad singing to her—and the couple's first dance to "All That You Need" by Quinn XCII made the night unforgettable. "At the end of the day, the only thing that matters is that you get married to the person you love," Lisa says. "The rest is just extra." —Kaila Stang

In keeping with the evening's timeless elegance, the bridesmaids donned black floor-length dresses, and the groomsmen were dressed to impress in sharp tuxedos.

A striking green, black and gold palette elevated every detail, especially the plating.

Lush tropical foliage hanging overhead popped against sleek black linens, adding a dramatic touch to the reception tables.

Lisa's favorite moment from the ceremony? "Walking down the aisle and seeing the people most important and impactful to us," she says.
